* ## Rasterization Photoshop's ability to rasterize vector and bitmapped images. Vector images are stored as defined by their stroke and outline. A vector image can be created using either the Pen Tool or the Pen Tool (polygonal) in the Tools panel. Vector images can also be cut (Crop tool), copied (Copy tool), inked (Eraser tool) and resized using the Rectangular or Trim command. Bitmapped images are stored as an array of pixels of color, and they can be viewed or cropped like a raster image. These images are created by the selection tool (Rectangular or Lasso), the Paint Bucket tool, and the Color tool. *Note: Rasterization can also be performed by the printer.
