1. Early Access version The New Fantasy Action RPG for Steam is currently in an early access stage, which means that it is still in development and the balance of the game is unfinished. As a result, the game may have some bugs, and there may be situations where you are unable to play. While we work on the final version of the game, we will provide various improvement and maintenance updates, as well as improvements and new functions. For more information, please check out our previous announcements on Tarnished. 2. Rules The New Fantasy Action RPG includes some additional rules compared to other action RPGs. We've decided to use these rules, as they help improve the game experience: - The player character cannot die (regenerate if equipped with the best equipment). - The player must leave the group after using a character ability, potion, or spell to gain a bonus (and is replaced by the AI character), and the timer resets. - The player can check their medal progress at the end of a battle. - The player can create a second character, and there is no skill restriction for the secondary character. 3. New game introduction video Check out the game introduction video for the New Fantasy Action RPG: 4. About Tarnished Tarnished is a highly-customizable action RPG where players can build a character with a wide range of weapons, armor, and skills. Players decide how to develop their characters, working on their appearance, equipment, skills, and magic to create unique personalities. In some cases, building permits are not issued until after the project has been substantially completed, and an inspection of the building plan shows that the project is acceptable to the city. The Asheville Area Housing Opportunities Program (AAHOP) reminds builders and building owners that, although design review is not always required for minor projects, North Carolina is a craft-restricted state. According to the North Carolina Home Builders Association (NCHBA), although the North Carolina Construction Code has been revised and does not specifically refer to architecture and building design, many cities require a permit for minor projects. Additionally, the NCHBA explains, some places require a permit regardless of the size of the project. There are two types of construction contractors—professional contractors and non-professional contractors. The NCHBA states that, in general, professional contractors are required to get a permit for more expensive projects, and that non-professional contractors are required to get a permit for all projects, regardless of their size.
