SARA HIWASHI, ICONI (5/5) "The story itself is built around a series of 'moments', or battles. I got the sense that the world of Tanaph is designed to appeal to anyone who's ever had a moment of sudden excitement and then felt genuinely regret for failing to keep their cool. Its fun combat style and tight level design makes it easy to jump in and enjoy." JUNNA KOI, ITUNES JAPAN (5/5) "I actually replayed the scenario multiple times so I could hunt down and eliminate bugs. I could tell I was making progress, so I just kept right on going. With such a satisfying game, I didn't want to stop playing. To me, it felt like it's something you could actually finish. It was just so easy to enjoy. I can't say I've ever experienced a game that I just couldn't put down." MISA MOCHIZUKI, ITUNES JAPAN (5/5) "Overall, the game was fantastic. By carefully selecting its protagonist, the main characters, the art style, the soundtrack, the ability to customize the protagonist's gameplay style, and more, the game made me feel as though I was going through its own unique journey. I was really impressed by the game." JUNYA FURINO, ITUNES JAPAN (5/5) "I really enjoyed the concept of a classic fantasy story done in an action RPG manner. I honestly don't remember the last time I've enjoyed an RPG so much as this one. I think it's made a huge impression on me." SHIN SOON HONG, ITUNES JAPAN (5/5) "My first impression was, Wow! There is so much to do that it's difficult to tell what's going on at first. However, once you get going, it's hard to put down. ... It's an RPG that can be enjoyed by anyone, from someone with no prior experience." YANAGI KOJI, ITUNES JAP bff6bb2d33

Q: finding phase difference between sinusoidal signals So, I'm writing a program which basically takes two sinusoidal functions with frequency f_1 and f_2 (suppose the signals are limited to $[-100, 100]$), has a phase difference between the two signals, and measures the magnitude of the difference. I want the program to be able to take any two sinusoids, but is giving me trouble when I try to implement the phase difference and $\phi = \tan^{-1}$ method. If someone could help me out by pointing out my mistake or the best way to approach this problem, I would greatly appreciate it. First I tried implementing the phase difference between f_1 and f_2 by just subtracting the two signals and taking the sine of that value. This works for up to $\pi/4$ phase difference. Here's my code: # Declaring the
