A: Yes, there are a few issues with your code. They are easily addressed. IFs You've got some comments on your code that say something like `/Comment here.*/` -- As much as I like not using comments to explain code, I do prefer to see them in this form. In the future, before writing code, try to look at it and see what parts need comments so you can add them. IF Also, you've got this: `if (currentIndex == 0) { return; }` Branch Rather than duplicating a lot of code, and your index has gone from 0 to 7, why not set a limit? Enumeration Enumeration is the opposite of array, so you can iterate through and use the index to access a specific cell. I will explain this in a little more detail below. visitVirtual Table You're using a virtual table to iterate, and a big if statement to work with. Is it possible to use a different, larger array (don't worry, we can still make the code efficient), or have you already tried this and didn't want to post about it? `returnToFillCell();` You're calling this function to "return to the previous cell" -- that doesn't sound like a good idea at all. References It would be wise to declare
