
Monday, May 22, 2005 ALIENS: OMG! I got an email from a guy who just happens to have an Alien at his door. I'm thinking Alien, Alien or Predator. Maybe it's an Alien?! I'll mail him back to see what he has. I also received a couple of letters from the dudes who run the Alien.com website. It seems that they're going to change the site to only focus on the movies. They want to become a "movies only" site, meaning that it's no longer possible to download movies that aren't in theaters. Here's the funniest part. I'm only getting an email address with a lot of these site because they're apparently worried that I'm gonna be sending DOS attacks on them. I get it. It's not my intention to cause them any problems. But come on, what the hell are they worried about? Who's gonna bother me when I'm not sending out any DOS attacks? Besides, I'm just gonna ignore them. The non-electronic version, these are funny.

In August 2011, the Manku party, funded by the All India Anna Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam, "won" all five Lok Sabha seats in the Coimbatore area, allowing them to form a government in Kerala, after the Coimbatore Mahila Congress had won all five Lok Sabha seats in the state in elections held in April 2011. All India Anna Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam leader O. Kumaran Nair and N. Ramamurthy, the leader of the Mankada faction in the party, had led a faction called Minal Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam, founded in 2004, in protest against the merger of the Munnetra Kazhagam with the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam in 2006. Although the party lost in the election to the Coimbatore Municipal Corporation (CMC) election held in 2012, the party is attempting to return to Coimbatore's politics in the 2020 state assembly elections, with Kumaran Nair as its candidate for the Coimbatore Lok Sabha constituency, which the party had won in 2014. N. Ramamurthy also contested the 2014 elections for the constituency. In the 2019 Indian general election, N. Ramamurthy had contested the Chennai Central Lok Sabha constituency, but he lost by a landslide margin of more than 4.6 lakh votes, with the major loss coming from the Coimbatore constituency, where the Mankada faction of the All India Anna Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (AIADMK) had contested in 2014. Television campaigns It was one of the first language television channels in India to be launched, on 1 October 1990, and won the first ever Indian television awards in 1992. The channel was launched on 1 November 1994 as the first private regional channel in India and was shut down in August 1996 by Indian Government. In December 2008, the channel was relaunched as the first 24-hour regional Tamil language channel "Tamil Alangudi TV". The channel is currently owned by Sun TV Network, Kerala. History Arunachalam Muruganantham graduated from the agricultural college, Madurai and was a member of the Tamil Nadu Farmers Association, where he used to teach farmers about better ways to farm. After seeing the difference making- capacity of the small farmers, Arunachalam founded the Annamalai Agricultural University
