Post a Comment Sunday, November 14, 2015 My thoughts about the USA presidential election Okay, so the drama has now begun. We have a shocker in the Indiana Primary today. We need to focus on all the candidates and their strategies in the remaining contests. Let me share a few thoughts of mine and it is not who I voted for! Trump for President? Yes, there is no other choice! He has said it and reiterated it. Who better than him to "drain the swamp"? I think he will win the nomination. It has been amazing to watch the campaign. The world is starting to come into focus. He is willing to shake things up. The Dems are so united and the party is so well organized. He has the common sense to see the issues that most people are seeing. They are ready to put those issues in the faces of the voters. Hillary and Bernie Sanders are the same when it comes to social security, public schools, income tax, minimum wage, abortion, taxes, and so on. It is amazing that they would come together! They are so busy demonizing each other that they have forgotten the issues that ordinary Americans are facing. They are afraid of the silent majority. We are angry that our country has done nothing to help those who are suffering in foreign countries. Donald Trump is not a politician. He is not the part of the political elite. We are so fed up with politicians that we want someone that is not afraid to be different. Someone who doesn't take the campaign contributions of wealthy donors. The media doesn't care about the issues that are important to us. They care about ratings. What is going on in the elections is a race to get ratings. The ratings are down! They are losing money! The news is not about the real issues that are on the ballot. The media is controlled by the elite. They are afraid of the truth. They have been brainwashed! The media is reporting only what they want us to believe. Even when they say something contrary to the truth. You may not think that the media
