(21) The CPU will automatically adjust the display based on the Q: Regex: match everything except a word? I have searched high and low, but have been unable to find a way to use a negative lookbehind in javascript to match everything except "browser". I need this so that if the string is "browser=chrome" or "browser=IE" or "browser=Safari" the entire string should be matched, but only the "browser" part should be matched. In other words the entire string should be matched, but only the string "browser=" should be matched, so that I can remove the string "browser=" from the beginning of the string and ending. Thanks in advance. A: You can use the regex `/(^|s)+/`. This regex looks for any character at the beginning of the string, then it has to find browser=, and it has to look for anything that isn't a whitespace character, else the match won't occur. Note that `[^s]` matches anything that's not a whitespace. This regex will match against the strings "browser=chrome", "browser=IE", and "browser=Safari". To break down the regex a little more: `*` - the dot `.` means any character `()` which also means that we are matching the beginning of the string `()` browser= - this is the match that we are looking for `(^|s)+` - the parentheses `()` are used to create a set. A set consists of a single character that is not `[e79caf774b`
