Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a mounting device and a mounting method for attaching a plate-shaped object such as a metal belt, etc., to an object, such as a round bar member, a cylindrical bar member, a rod member, etc., which is provided with an internal thread. 2. Related Art A mounting device for attaching a plate-shaped object, such as a metal belt, etc., to an object, such as a round bar member, a cylindrical bar member, a rod member, etc., which is provided with an internal thread, is generally known from, for example, Japanese Laid-Open Patent Publication No. 2002-117855. In the mounting device described in Japanese Laid-Open Patent Publication No. 2002-117855, the metal belt is attached to the object by tightening a flange-like circumferential edge portion of the metal belt against the object. Then, in order to prevent the metal belt from slipping out, a lead screw (a nut) having a male screw section is screwed into a thread-like receiving portion of the object, so that the circumferential edge portion of the metal belt is clamped between the male screw section of the lead screw and the thread-like receiving portion. However, in the mounting device described in Japanese Laid-Open Patent Publication No. 2002-117855, when the metal belt is tightened against the object, a tightening torque needs to be applied to the lead screw. In order to apply the tightening torque to the lead screw, a mechanism for applying the tightening torque to the lead screw needs to be provided separately from the lead screw. Therefore, when the tightening torque needs to be applied to the lead screw, a new mechanism for applying the tightening torque needs to be provided, and the number of parts increases, resulting in a cost increase. + (2 + - 4)) - 5) . - 5 0 W h a t i s t h e v a l u e o f - 1 8 3 -
