Q: How to set selected item from database instead of hardcoded? I have a very simple table called FruitList in a SQL Server database. Its fields are FruitCode, FruitName and FruitLocation. The database records are being populated by the application and it is working as intended. What I would like to do now is to have the application pick the fruit code based on the user's current location. This means that I would like to pick the fruit code in the FruitLocation field using a SELECT statement. My question is how do I make the selected item from the database in the application automatically. I have tried the following:

Private Sub frmFruitList_Load(sender As Object, e As EventArgs) Handles MyBase.Load Dim selectStatement As String selectStatement = "SELECT FruitLocation FROM FruitList" Dim myConnection As New SqlConnection myConnection.ConnectionString = "MyConnectionString" myConnection.Open() Dim myCommand As New SqlCommand myCommand.CommandText = selectStatement myCommand.Connection = myConnection Dim myReader As SqlDataReader myReader = myCommand.ExecuteReader()
'line below is not working ListViewItem.Items.Add(myReader.Item("FruitLocation"))
End Sub

I have read that I need to use BindingSources and that is where I am heading. Any help will be appreciated.

A: ListViewItem.SelectedIndex = myReader.Item("FruitLocation")

The documentation for ListViewItem.SelectedIndex is here.
